Mr. Wheeler's marriage had its result behind it. When the Army of the Cumberland held its reunion in Milwaukee, Mr. Robert M. Wilson, a young manufacturer from Connecticut, was present. He had read Miss Wheeler's poetry and wished to see her. It happened that she contributed a poem to the occasion and was pointed out to Mr. Wilson. On his return home he wrote to her, and, though she had never met him, she liked his letter and replied. A pleasant correspondence followed, and soon a meeting was brought about. It proved a case of mutual love at first sight.—Windsor Chronicle.

MR. W. D. PERLEY, M. P.

C. P. R. RESOLUTIONS.

The resolutions authorizing the Government to guarantee the interest on $15,000,000 of C. P. R. land grant bonds have passed the Dominion House. In the debate arising thereon Mr. W. D. Perley, M. P. for East Assiniboia, delivered a capital speech. He said he voted against Mr. Watson's motion last year as it appeared to him that Winnipeg was trying to obtain a monopoly of the Manitoba and Northwest trade. While he believed it was in the interest of the Northwest that the C. P. R. should so improve its line in the east as to be able to handle Northwest traffic, he considered in common fairness that a part of the fifteen millions should be spent in building branch lines in Manitoba and the Territories.

The following amendment was proposed by Mr. Daly and seconded by Mr. Perley, but the Government declined to accept it:
"Provided further that it shall be a condition to the above proposition being carried out, that the C. P.
R. shall expend a portion of the proceeds of the sale of bonds referred to herein in the immediate construction and equipment of the proposed branch lines of the said railway in Southwestern Manitoba and the Northwest Territories."

W. M. & Q. R. R.

Rumors coming from a reliable source indicate that construction work will soon be begun on the Wood Mountain and Qu'Appelle Railway. Mr. T. W. Jackson is expected to return here in a few days, and no doubt more definite information will then be available.
There are good reasons for believing that it will probably not be long before grading outfits will make Qu'- Appelle lively by their presence.

The Presbyterian synod of Toronto and Kingston closed its annual session at Owen Sound on the 10th inst. The main question debated was the report on temperance, presented by the synod. It was warmly discussed in pretty much the same spirit as manifested in the Presbytery a few days ago, a prohibition law being recommended.

The preacher, says Rev. Joseph Cook, who is a moderate drinker, the teacher, the editor, the lecturer, or even the politician, who is not a total abstainer, and most especially the Christian who votes for laws licensing men to put the bottle to their neighbor's lips, are all, or all ought to be pointed out by the scornful finger of scientific criticism and progress as beheaded and belated misleaders of public and private opinion.

Look at the effects of drunkenness upon a man. God made man in his own image. What warts that image and stamps it with the counterfeit die of the devil? Drink does it. 'Man by nature walks erect and lifts his forehead to the stars' and he is crowned lord of creation. What breaks his sceptre, tears his crown from his brow, and degrades him below the level of the beasts? Drink does it. What sears the heart and dams up the fountain of pure and high affection? It is the drink. No young man expects anything of this kind to come upon him. We do not say that it will, but we want to warn any young man who is a moderate drinker that he stands on dangerous ground.

INDIAN HEAD. COUNCIL MINUTES.

The council met in the Council Room, Indian Head, on May 12th, at 10:45 o'clock.

Present: W. R. Bell, Chairman; Councillors: Sanderson, Ferguson, Davis, Kirkland.

The minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

Moved by Councillors Ferguson Kirkland, that the council adjourn to meet at 13 o'clock. Carried.

On council resuming business Couns. Ewart and Brooks arrived and took their places.

Several communications were read and referred to the different committees.

Couns. Ferguson and Davis—that the clerk communicate with Mr.
Scott of Regina, asking his advice rethe refunding of taxes that were paid of 1885. Carried.

Couns. Ferguson and Brooks—that Mr. Stroug be asked to send his account in connection with the Railton case to the Minister of Justice as in our opinion the case was of sufficient public interest to warrant the department of Justice in paying it especially as the municipality has lost considerable money by the case already. Carried.

The Finance committee reported as follows: That E. J. Weidman's acc't of $28.25 be paid less $6 supposed to be paid, that the demand of R. Davis, treasurer of Spring Cree School District be paid; that the communications of G. Ellis, J.
Obleman and C. Downing, be laid over; that the claims of G. C. Battiscombe for remission of road work be not entertained; that in regard to the communications of Dr. Flemming, F. E. Good, G. Balstrode, G.
Hardy the clerk be instructed to obtain further instructions.

The above report was adopted.
Couns. Ferguson and Brooks—that notices be posted up calling for applications for collector to be in before next meeting.

The auditor's report was then read and received.

Couns. Brooks and Ferguson—that in consideration of the extra labor and the very satisfactory way in which his report has been made out that a further sum of $15 in addition to his salary of $10 be paid D. McLean as auditor. Carried.

Couns. Kirkland and Davis—that the Court of Revision be held on Saturday, June 16th next, at 10 a.m.
Carried.

The Council then adjourn to meet on 16th June next. Carried.

WOLSELEY.

For these last two days, large prairie fires have been burning west of here.

The weather continues fine and the prospects of the farmers in this vicinity are favorable.

Some of the Indians of the Assiniboine reserve are believed to be the parties who started the fires.

We wonder who it was that disturbed the quietness of last Sabbath by shooting at the ducks on the dam.

The young men of Wolsley, have formed a base ball club. We hope that they will wash the butters off their hands before they attempt to play a match this year.

Mr. Cook, from England arrived here Sunday evening and on Monday went with his family to visit Mr. L. Battersby on the P. M.
Colony, after which he intends to take up a homestead in this vicinity.

EDMONTON.

Word has been received from Athabasca Landing of the death of a trapper by starvation. Last fall two men, McMullen and Golden, left here for the Athabasca and Pembina rivers to spend the winter in hunting and trapping. Part of the provisions which they had cashed in a shanty were destroyed by some means unknown. The very severe winter made hunting impossible, and the consequence was starvation stared them in the face. There was no possible way out until the ice broke in the spring. They boiled their furs and ate them, consumed everything eatable they could find and then waited for death.

Golden who had been ailing, died on April 29. His companion had hardly strength sufficient to bury him. Shortly after this the ice began to move, and McMullen got into his canoe and went down the river with it, arriving at the Landing on the 30th in a most pitiable condition.

KATEPWA.

—Mr. Bulstrode is greatly enlarging his area of cultivation this year.

—The ice has broken and drifted down with the wind putting a stop to fishing at this end of the lakes for a while.

—Seeding is pretty well finished here now and some of our young men find time to extend their Sunday evening calls until late on Monday morning.

—Our school teacher has been lately trying his hand as a "Bronco buster," and nearly succeeded in "busting" his neck, but may now be seen making his daily trip in a sulky behind his famous Cyclone colt.

—Mr. McLellan sold a beef ox to Mr. John McKinnon, of Qu'Appelle, lately and Mr. Grant has been disposing of a number of ponies from his fine band, having sold one to go to the mission, two to go to the Fort and traded one with the school teacher here.

—The change in THE PROGRESS gives great satisfaction in the Valley.
We are a Northwest people here and like the paper all the better for being entirely a Northwest production. Your advanced stand on the Temperance question should meet with general approval.

Lord Salisbury and his colleagues have at length grown uneasy at the constant attacks of German newspapers, the growing antipathy of the German people against England, and the demonstration of Russia towards Central Asia, and are now hastily preparing the army and navy for any contingencies that may arise.
The government has ordered that two modern 30-ton guns be mounted on the central bastion, facing the sea at Sheerness. Other measures of defence will be adopted on the Thames.

Scientific Conceptions and Social Potency.

The first Napoleon's hatred of and contempt for "idealism" expressed in the practical man's scorn for more dreamers, but expressed far more the antagonism of brute force to that subtle ideal force which it had to struggle in vain. For ideas have their own laws of growth, and as the tender shoot of some vegetable organism will up-heave the heavy sod or split the hard rock, so will the development of some new conception often defy the constraints of material compression. The minute egg of the coral animal may grow into an oceanic isle, or into a reef besides which ships may sail for ages, or even into a densely peopled land, with its railways, cities and busy commerce. Similarly, an idea from the brain of some Descartes or Hobbes, some solitary sage of Königsberg, or a Genevan skill, full of imagination, but empty of morals, may, in the course of a few centuries, transform the aspect of the civilized world. The present is a time when scientific conceptions have a quite exceptional social potency, and we venture to think that some of those who have attained currency merit more attention from non-scientific readers than they have received on account of the relations they bear to temporary politics. We believe that many of the errors of even the most extreme school of Nihilists are the outcome of one of the most common and mistaken philosophic ideas, apparently quite remote from the sphere of politics. This idea may be shortly expressed as the mechanical conception of the universe. But if we are right in believing that this conception is at the root of such political errors, they have also a common origin from a source much less remote. They may be considered, in the first place, as developments of the main political error of Jean Jacques Rousseau, whose dreams have had results which now threaten so much of Europe with revolution and anarchy. This main political error is the conception that the art of politics is a mere matter of counting heads, one man being absurdly represented to be "as good as another."

Hence arises the profound error of regarding a nation as a mere loose aggregate of similar units, instead of as an organic whole composed of a system of mutually related parts (having very different values and very diverse functions) from the family upward. But this insane reduction of one national or organic whole into a mass of separate, similar atoms is really but one of many examples of that modern tendency to regard all action as merely mechanical which has increasingly invaded every branch of knowledge, to the profound detriment of morals and religion.—
British Quarterly Review.

A five-year-old girl fell from a third story window in Cincinnati, recently out a gentleman passing by saw her sinking, caught her in his arms, and saved her from any harm.—Cincinnati Times.

A couple of Flushing (N. Y.) squirrel-hunters caught a Canadian stoat or ermine, which was nested in a tree. It shipped their dog before they killed it.
It is the first known to have been caught on Long Island.

Little Lucy Johnson, of Tucson, Arizona, recently escaped its mother's noose and crawled out of the house into the woods. When found by the mother the young one was fondly caressing a large snake, who made no attempt to harm the child. The mother expressed her kindness to her daughter by taking her away and leaving the reptile to its fate.—Chicago Times.

—A story is told by some of the old residents of the State to the effect that the word was first applied to Indians about the time when Madison was the center of a large fur trade, and farmers for a hundred miles around would drive their herds there in great droves. The peculiar noise that they kept up in driving the swine-sounded something like hoo-ee! hoo-ee! hoo-ee!
led to their being called, by a corruption of the sound, "Hooisers." The story, if true, would make the origin of the word comparatively recent, and it cannot be accepted with credence for the reason that the palmy porker days of Madison were long after the Hooisers had become known.

The first that is known of the word appearing in print was in 1830, when John Finley, the Wayne County poet, wrote a New Year's poem for the Journal Sentinel. "Hooiser's Nest," in which a description of the pioneer cabin in Indiana is given. The poem, in the light of one of the traditional songs, gives something of an idea of the manner in which the word came into use. The first few lines read:

I'm told in riding somewhere
A stranger found a Hooiser's nest.
In other words, a Hooiser's nest.
Just big enough to hold Queen Mab in situation—low lying.

The Early Fly.

If the origin of all things is a mystery, the genesis of the early fly is a still greater one. Nor is this statement antagonized by an ancient and well-worn notion, the whole a greater than any of its parts—or, if it is, then so much the worse for the old axiom.
It is easy enough to see how the origin of existence in general should be a mystery. Existence in general is something large and vague, and it is not specially mortifying to confess one's ignorance in regard to the origin of some tremendous generality. But the fly—the early fly in particular—is not general, nor vague, nor large. He is particular—in his attentions, if not in his diet—and very definite, and small.
It is therefore the more wonderful that he should spring into existence out of apparent nothingness. But that is what he does. No fly knows whence he comes, but on the first really warm day he is here and ready for business.
He never has any period of helpless infancy, either. He begins full-grown and self-reliant. He clings, to be sure, but it is not for support. We never yet heard of a fly who was not fully able to support himself. And yet he soon becomes insupportable.

But to return to his origin. It is the general belief of children that he grows on window panes, and we do not know that any better theory has been devised.
That is where he makes his first appearance, at any rate. A manufacturer of window-glass who should patent a process for making panes that would not produce or attract flies would make a fortune out of it. We do not know, however, that such a process is possible. It seems to be an inherent and essential property of flies to produce flies. It certainly is an inherent and essential property of flies to produce or aggravate pains. And yet, strictly speaking, they have no property of their own. They live altogether on other people's property. Perhaps that is the reason that such persons as Mr.
Ferdinand Ward are sometimes called "too fly." At all events, flies are very expensive animals. The coming of the early fly terrifies the housekeeper into providing wire-screens for his doors and windows, at a cost of one hundred dollars or more. It also creates the enshrouding of chandeliers and picture-frames. When the swarm arrives in force it is very hard on shoes. The only consolation possible is the reflection that next November the fly will have gone almost as suddenly and mysteriously as he came.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

—From a French State paper, lately brought to light, it appears that in 1770 the following Parliamentary decree was specially passed and duly registered under King Louis XV.: "Whoever by means of red or white paint, perfumes, essences, artificial teeth, false hair, cotton wool, iron courses, hoops, shoes with high heels, or false hips, shall seek to entice into the hands of marriage any male subject of his Majesty, shall be prosecuted for witchcraft and declared incapable of matrimony."

—Jonathan Wheelock deposited in the New Hampshire Savings Bank, in Concord, March 23, 1833, one hundred dollars bounty money which he had received as a Revolutionary soldier. Two other deposits of fifteen dollars each were added to it—April 15, 1834, and April 9, 1835. The money still remaining in the bank, and amounted on the first day of January last, with accrued interest, to two thousand and fifty-five dollars and forty-four cents.—*Boston

Who's a Hooiser?

A story is told by some of the old res-
something like hoo-ee! hoo-ee! hoo-ee!
tion of the sound, "Hooisers." The story,
had become known.

John Finley, the Wayne County poet,
wrote a New Year's poem for the
into use. The first few lines read:

I'm told in riding somewhere
A stranger found a Hooiser's nest.
situation—low lying.

Was on the borders of a prairie, And, fearing he might be laughed at,
He balled the house and consigned it.
The Hooiser met him at the door, Their salutations soon were over.

It was the custom among the early pioneers in Indiana in traveling through the country to hail a cabin by calling out: "Who lives here?" and "Who's here?" About the time of the treaty of peace with the Indians, in 1813, and when the State was very sparsely settled, travel was attended by great dangers, and no one could go far away from home without his rifle. As a common precaution of safety, when a traveler saw in the distance the smoke from a camp or cabin fire, he would call out, upon coming within hearing distance, "Who's here?" and from the

THE MEETING.

As will be seen elsewhere in these columns, a public meeting of the electors of this municipality is to be held in McLane's hall on Monday afternoon next, at 15 o'clock, for the purpose of considering the advisability of nominating a candidate for the representation of this district in the Northwest Legislature, and if thought expedient by the meeting to select a candidate who would receive their unanimous support. The meeting is called by the chairman of the municipality on the requisition of a number of the electors. It is to be hoped that the object of the meeting will be accomplished. It can be done if all go to the meeting prepared to forego their own preferences for the common weal. It will be easy to prevent the desired result if there is an attempt made to force upon the meeting any candidate which even a minority positively refuse to accept. The western portion of the electoral district can elect any candidate upon whom they will unite. The eastern portion is almost unanimous, and with a division in the west can elect their man. It therefore rests with the electors of the municipality whether they will unite upon a candidate and elect him or again make it an easy thing for the eastern man. All should go prepared to unite upon a candidate that will be acceptable to the whole of the west.

THE NEW LEGISLATURE.

The Bill now before the Dominion Parliament creating a Legislative Assembly for the Northwest Territories is defective in not providing for the election of its members by ballot, and in not providing for an executive to act with the Lieutenant Governor. It is needless for us to repeat the oft-repeated arguments in favor of the ballot at all elections. It is generally conceded that the ballot is preferable to open voting, and the Northwest Council has adopted the ballot in municipal elections, and otherwise often pronounced in its favor. It is, therefore, too much of an insinuation respecting the intelligence of the people of the Northwest to deny them the ballot in the election of their legislators. In reference to the appointment of an executive council the new bill is a step backward instead of forward. All the members of the old Council were appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor to act with himself as an executive council. Provision should be made for an executive of three members chosen from the legislature, and it is to be hoped that the Bill will not finally pass without some such provision. The representation of all the people, doing away with the appointed members and the adoption of manhood suffrage are commendable features of the Bill.

PROHIBITION OR LICENSE.

The question is frequently asked—what is meant by Prohibition? To declare as illegal the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in the ordinary way by license is to prohibit. But among those who are opposed to the retail sale of intoxicants in saloons or hotels there is a vast diversity of opinion as to how and for what purposes liquors shall be procurable. There are those who wish to see any kind of intoxicant placed under the same restrictions as to sale as to that of other poisons, and there are also those who would favor the liberty of every man procuring liquors for his own use without let or hindrance if he so desired. It should be the aim of all Prohibitionists to unite those extremes of view upon some scheme that would be generally acceptable. No doubt the whole question is hedged about with great difficulties, still it must be grappled with, and a scheme devised to meet our case. The Territorial Temperance Convention of 22nd November last recommended the opening of Government depots, in which a salaried officer should sell alcoholic liquors in sealed packages under proper restrictions, the liquors to be furnished by the Government after proper tests by chemical analysis as to quality. In working out the details of such a system no doubt considerable difficulty and some friction would be met with, but it is thought that under the supervision of a competent commissioner, such a system would be more acceptable than the present.

W. C. T. U.

On Friday, the 4th inst., the monthly meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, was held in the school house. After singing and prayer the subject for this meeting was taken up and discussed. Mrs. Edwards, President of the Association, taking charge.

The speaker showed the great importance of skill in taking care of the sick, both for the comfort of the patient and to insure success in the general treatment of disease. The points particularly dwelt upon, were the preparation of poultices and bandages for use in sprains, broken limbs, etc., the bathing of patients confined to bed and the changing of bed linen. Mrs. Edwards had prepared poultices and bandages and these practical illustrations far more than mere words, gave an idea of what was required. Linseed meal poultices are most efficacious when made stiff enough to be applied directly without danger of adhering to the skin of the patient or moistening his clothing they can then be made to retain the heat for an hour and a half. In cases of extreme exhaustion where it is essential to disturb the patient as little as possible, the heat may be retained for some hours longer by putting a layer of cotton batting over it and then a cover of oil silk. The method of preparing and using bandages was similarly illustrated. The ladies present felt very thankful to Mrs. Edwards for the valuable information imparted on all the points mentioned. The interchange among the members of their own experience in such matters was also helpful.

The subject for discussion for next month is THE KITCHEN and the most healthful, palatable and economical ways of preparing food.

Such meetings of ladies as these will exert an influence far beyond what even the promoters conceive and we heartily recommend all our lady friends in town and country, who can do so, to attend these monthly meetings under the charge of the W. C. T. U. All single and married ladies are welcome and the work is all done free of expense to the public.

The encouragement of drunkenness, said Thomas Carlyle, for the sake of gaining money is a more desperate form of assassination than has been adopted by the bravos of any country or age.

A writer in Golden Rule says: On going to a place of business that I have been accustomed to patronize I found it closed and its occupant gone. Greatly surprised, I turned aside to an adjacent door to enquire the cause. I found my friend had suffered some reverses and that he could be found newly established in a remote locality. On visiting him he attributed his removal to the fact that a saloon was located in proximity to his old stand. Said he, "Under the power of a drinking habit that I was forming, I have not been myself, and my business had about all left me. To get away from that saloon I moved out here." Said I "To me it seems as though it is the other party that ought to do the moving. My feeling is that the saloon must go." "Well," said he "it ought to, really." Said I, "Drinking is an expensive habit." "That I know to my sorrow," he interrupted. "And," said I "it will fearfully use up a man's business." "Oh, that is not the worst of the matter," said he "it uses up the man." Here is a man trying, at a loss of business, to get away from a saloon that ought to be made away from him. Here is a proof that others besides the abstinent are interested in forcibly closing the drunkeries. What this man wanted by his own statement, was a long distance between his place of business and any saloon, and it is the saloon that should be obliged to move, and not the man whom it injures.

Wolf Teeth.

Wolf teeth are two small superfluous teeth which appear one on each side immediately in front of the first molar, or double tooth, on the upper jaw. Among horsemen there is a general impression that these teeth are injurious to the eyes, frequently causing blindness, unless removed. Veterinarians, however, do not coincide in this opinion, for if the belief were correct, all horses would go blind, as all have these superfluous teeth at some time of their lives, generally between the first and fifth year. So strong and widespread, however, is the belief in the blinding effect of these teeth, that whenever a horse is attacked with ophthalmia, the owner is likely to look for these teeth, and if found, they are thought to be the cause of the ailment and are roughly knocked out. In doing so the gums are generally bruised, causing considerable inflammation, which acting as a counter-irritant, attracts the inflammation from the eye, and, of course, the belief is confirmed that "wolf teeth" cause blindness.

A country editor is one who reads newspapers, writes on any subject, sticks type, folds papers, makes up mails, runs errands, is blamed for a thousand things he never thought of, works hard all day, is subject to spring fever, helps people into office who forget all about it afterward, and frequently gets cheated out of his earnings. He puffs up and does more for the town and country than any one else, and the miser and foggy are benefited, yet they will not take his paper, but borrow it and cuss the fool of an editor.

—"Can't you help me a little?" asked a tramp. "I am hungry and can't get any work at my trade." "What's your trade?" asked the gentleman. "I am a glass-worker." "What kind of a glass-worker?"
